

Methane Hydrates

IPCC AR4 WGII, p 662

Significant amounts of methane hydrates are contained in sediments, especially in Arctic continental shelves. As these areas warm, this methane will be released, adding to the greenhouse gases in the atmosphere”

