

"Our modeling suggests that realisation of the sea ice future which is currently projected would mean loss of 2/3 of the world's current polar bear population by mid century."

Amstrup et al 2007

